MISSOULA--

Dr. Charles R. Horejsi (pronounced Ho-ray-she), professor of social work at the University of Montana in Missoula, has been awarded $30,258 by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare to develop training materials related to foster care.

Horejsi said the materials will be used for training child welfare workers in techniques of family intervention that can reduce the need for foster care and enhance the foster home experiences for children needing the care.

A handbook and home-study type materials will be among the items developed during the project, according to Horejsi, who is director of the year-long project.
